Discussion Starters
1. In the story, is the bucket real or invisible? Invisible. Why did the author suggest a bucket instead of a brick? Answers will vary – brick can not be filled. Brick is heavy and would hurt.

2. What if we all had an invisible bucket over your head? Is your bucket empty or full? How do you feel? Answers will vary.

3. What is a bucket-filling moment? When someone shows they care, helps someone out, shows appreciation or uses kind words with others. Encouraging others is a great example of bucket-filling.

4. What does it mean to have a FULL bucket? What filled Felix’s bucket? How did Felix feel when his bucket was full? Felix heard lots of encouraging words and nice things said about him and it filled his bucket. It made him feel great. How can you fill your own bucket? By choosing to practice NED’s message…Never give up. Encourage others and Do your best…you will fill other’s bucket and help fill your own bucket by believing in yourself.

5. What happens to the bucket when someone says unkind words? It dips into the bucket and empties it! Read a few examples of bucket dipping moments and have kids pull objects OUT of the bucket. What does it mean to have an EMPTY bucket? How did Felix feel when his bucket was empty? Felix felt sad when people were unkind, said mean things, and did not encourage him.

7. In the book, Felix’s bucket was filled by many different people at school. Who were they and what did they do? Note: Use the book to help students retell this part of the story.
- Mrs. Bumblenickel praised his story
- His mom left a note in his lunch
- The art teacher complimented his work
- The kids listening to his Giganotosaurus story
- The PE teacher named him team captain
- A girl at school liked his backpack.

Shrimp: small in size (not the seafood!)

8. Felix wasn’t kind to JUST the people who were nice to him. He set kindness in motion by encouraging others and being kind to others. Do you remember who they were and what he did? Note: Use the book to help kids retell this part of the story.

- Picked up papers the teacher dropped
- Gave baseball back to kids playing ball
- Talked to new kid (Amir) at school.

9. How did Felix feel after being kind to others? His bucket was full and he was happy

10. What did Felix do with his full bucket when he got home? He helped fill Anna’s bucket by inviting her to play with blocks. How is this different from the beginning of the book when Anna wanted to play blocks? What made the difference for Felix? Answers will vary.

Writing Prompts
1. What are some ways YOU can encourage others in your classroom and around your school?
2. What empties your own bucket? How do you feel and act when your bucket is empty? What could someone do to fill your bucket? What could you do to help fill your own bucket?
3. Write about a specific time that someone encouraged you. Use the 5 W’s (Who, What, Where, When, Why) to retell the event.

Activities

Writing Project or Classroom Bulletin Board Kit
Each student should fill out both sides of a “drop card” with one example of an action that fills a bucket and one example that empties a bucket. Provide an example to model appropriate writing. Print the drops double sided on blue paper and cut out. Arrange the drops (with the ‘filling’ side facing outwards) and printable bucket on a bulletin board or class chart as a reminder to students how to be like NED and ENCOURAGE others!

NED Says, “Encourage Others Every Day!”
Keep a bucket in the classroom. During morning meeting, remind kids to be like NED and ENCOURAGE others with kindness today. At the end of the day, have students complete the reflection activity. Add examples that fill the bucket to the classroom bucket. Share a few, if time permits, at the end of the day or in the morning. When the bucket is full, reward the class! Do this as a no-name activity to help your students learn to be kind without getting recognition.

Team Encourage Others
Put students in partners. On the count of three...everyone plays Rock, Paper, Scissors! The loser of the match now becomes the encourager for the next match. For round two, each set of partners should join another group of two so that there are two competitors and two encouragers (one for each competitor). Play Rock, Paper, Scissors again and now end with one competitor and three encouragers for the next match. Keep the game going as long as it can continue. This is a great activity to demonstrate encouraging others after you are eliminated from a competition. Try doing it with several classes during recess and you will end up with a school yard full of ENCOURAGEMENT!

Note: Consider substituting your own traditional school game (that can be played in partners) for Rock, Paper, Scissors.
